

Call for Papers

Special Issue in Honor of Semih Koray:
Well-Designed Incentive Schemes

Guest Editor:

M. Remzi Sanver, Université Paris-Dauphine, Université PSL, CNRS, LAMSADE, Paris, France
e-mail: remzi.sanver@dauphine.fr

Submission via Editorial Manager:

<https://www.editorialmanager.com/roed/default.aspx>

Deadline for submissions: March 31, 2021

Semih Koray of Bilkent University, Turkey, is a highly regarded leader in the field of Economic Design. His outstanding academic contributions, dedicated mentorship to countless students, and distinguished services to the community, such as the organization of the Bosphorus Workshop on Economic Design, gathering economists from all over the world for 40 years, are sources of inspiration to many of us.

The Review of Economic Design will publish a special issue that will collect papers around the themes to which Semih Koray has extensively contributed. Thus, authors are invited to submit papers that develop our understanding of the relationship between social goals and the incentive schemes induced by social organizations. While papers are expected to use models of mechanism design or collective choice, those that are of exceptional quality and close to the journal's core topics will also be considered.

The papers must be submitted through the electronic submission system at <https://www.editorialmanager.com/roed/default.aspx>, choosing "Special Issue in honor of Semih Koray" from the drop-down list during submission. Please mention in the cover letter as well that the submission is meant for the special issue in honor of Semih Koray. Submissions accepted before the completion of the issue will be published 'online first,' and they will be fully citable with the DOI.